As a consequence, the  $K_a$  values of steroid-protein complexes bonded predominantly by hydrophobic forces are not much different at 37 and 4 °C, whereas the affinity constants of the more hydrophilic complexes are considerably lower at 37 than at 4 °C. The quotient  $K_a(4 °C) / K_a(37 °C)$ , therefore, is the smaller the greater the relative contribution of hydrophobic bonds. Table 3 shows these
